Foreword

Foreword

We, the Class of 1963 of the Hahnemann Medical-College and Hospital School of Nursing, present you with "Keys" so that you may share with us the key points of our nursing education.

Keys lock and unlock the doors to experiences and opportunities, large and small; and are symbolic of responsibility, achievement, authority, understanding, knowledge, and maturity. They can make our dreams come true, unlocking the many gateways to the future: but likewise, they can exclude us from life.

Each one of us now holds in his possession, a small ring of keys. In the future we may still hold this same ring or a ring holding many more keys—the choice is ours!

We Dedicate . . .

Miss Matilda F. Mezger

"A great deal of the joy of life consists in doing perfectly, or at least to the best of one's ability, everything which she attempts to do. There is a sense of satisfaction, a pride in surveying such a work . . . a work which is rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts . . . It is this conscientious completeness which turns work into art."—W. Mathews

As an expression of appreciation, we, the Class of 1963, respectfully dedicate this volume of the VIGIL to Miss Matilda Mezger, who has proved a capable instructor and a sincere friend. She has displayed the essential qualities of womanhood. Her life is characterized by dedication to her chosen profession and boundless love for the Hahnemann family, giving her talents unsparingly to her Alma Mater. Our interests are her interests; our gains, her joys; and the shaping of lives to live to the best willingly assumed work, are links of understanding and friendship between us.

Mrs. Edythe G. Kistler, our director, came to Hahnemann just prior to the beginning of our adventurous journey through nursing school, helping us over the rough spots along the way. We sincerely thank her for her co-operation and friendship which has helped us, and all others fortunate enough to receive the benefits of her guidance.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1963:

When Commencement is over, you will "go forth" as Graduates of the School of Nursing of Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital.

Hahnemann has given you something that you, in turn, must give the World. Whichever field of Nursing you select as a Career, you must justify what your School of Nursing has given you by your services and achievement, and, more deeply, by your own satisfaction in a fuller life.

On behalf of the Faculty and myself, I am honored and pleased to extend to each of you hearty congratulations and best wishes for your success.

"NON NOBIS ... SED ALIIS
(Not for Ourselves But for Others)

A loud alarm at an early hour....
Two sleepy eyes peep out at dawn:
Another nursing day goes on....
NON NOBIS ... SED ALIIS!

Syringes, needles, charts, call lights,
Adhesive, sutures, 4 x 4's....
An army of physicians' orders
Multiply our daily chores....
NON NOBIS ... SED ALIIS!

A mask of pain, a sob, a tear,
A broken bone, a gasp for air,
A bleeding wound, a dying moan,
Each call for true professional care....
NON NOBIS ... SED ALIIS!

Someday, dear Lord, You'll come to call
Each nurse to leave this mortal soil
Remember then our greatest joy
Was put to love and, yes, to toil....
NON NOBIS ... SED ALIIS!"

Class History

In the beginning of time God separated the light from the darkness: so the annual issue of our yearbook, "The Vigil," endeavors to glean the highlights of those golden memories of our Freshman year.

As autumn transforms the world into a multi-colored wonderland, our arrival on September 6, 1960, marked the beginning of a new life, injected with a spirit of youth and vibrancy for fifty-six eager young women.

Registration day appeared to be a long one. We were oriented to our new routine—Remember how scared we were? That evening, after registration, we were guests of honor at a party given by our "big sisters." Afterwards, we returned to our rooms only to find—greasy doorknobs, lipstick-smeared mirrors, and rearranged furniture. One recalls being called a "probie" and having to wear those "dixie cup" hats on our off-duty time by order of our "big sisters."

Yes, "getting to know you" was our theme for orientation and one can't help but look back on the many new things such as "frat" parties, new friends, new city for some of us, and all at once we realized we were pending upon adulthood.

After orientation, classes began—Anatomy, Physiology, Chemistry, Microbiology, Pharmacology, Nursing Arts, and we even had a course in modeling! Remember the probie blues, the many tests, study hours, and the mad rush every Friday afternoon after classes to get a bus or train home.

Theoretical preparation finally led us to our first morning on the wards: this was to what we looked forward. One can not help but smile as we all remember how patients looked at us with untrusting eyes thinking we were maids because of our blue uniforms. Oh, how our hands and hearts trembled when we were supervised in giving our first enema, aspirating tracheotomies, etc.—just to mention a few.

It seemed the school year had barely begun when the Christmas season was upon us. Ornaments and frost decorated the neighborhood windows. The classes in the weeks preceding our mid-term vacation were rough, but they had a festive undertone. Soon, however, the social whirl of the holidays passed. Thrust upon us on our return to Hahnemann was the thought of pending examinations. Realizing that bib, apron, and cap were at stake, hopeful probies continued to study earnestly, and, in some cases, "cram" frantically.

New experiences and new people were all a part of Freshman year. My, what silly things we did! What a change in schedule! The weekends of our first six months seemed obsolete now that we were working on the floors and studying even harder.

The fantasy of spring, with buds bursting, grass growing, and seeds sprouting had a profound effect on our class, particularly when that long awaited day finally arrived. Recall how proud we were marching down the aisle of Klahr Auditorium in our new "white bibs and aprons." The importance of studies and hard work was finally realized as our caps were placed on our heads. Reciting the "Florence Nightingale Pledge," we all vowed to be loyal to this, our chosen profession.

Along came new and added responsibilities, such as Diet Kitchen, Operating-Room Nursing, Rehabilitation Nursing. We were in ecstacy for we knew more and were better able to meet the patients' needs.

Yes, our Freshman year brought many, varied, and new experiences, but they all were leading to that day when we could be called "Juniors."

We started our Junior year more enthusiastically than ever, looking forward to the experiences that lay in the year ahead. Ably led by Sue Centrella, Ellen Thompson, Mary Levy, and Joanne Dill, our class officers, we made decisions that shaped our class' future. A yearbook staff, which included most of the class, was drafted and we began to meet regularly. We soon realized that bake sales could be very profitable, financially. To augment this, we even held a radio raffle. By the end of our Junior year our classmates became known throughout the hospital as ardent saleswomen.

With our new blue stripe, we were seen throughout the hospital from the labor room to Pediatrics, trying diligently to put into practice all the specialized knowledge we gained in class. We even invaded the Operating Room where some of us left an indelible impression. It seemed a never ending round of exams, quizzes, and case studies; but we finally finished class block.

But though we studied, our social life was always lively. We sponsored a few affairs and actively supported many fraternity parties. As the highlight of the year, we held a prom for the Senior class.

We witnessed the ground breaking ceremony for the new nurses' residence and pondered the future of Hahnemann. With the selection of our graduation uniform and having our portraits taken, many hours were spent thinking of the "Big" day—graduation. WE eagerly chose our "little sisters" and awaited the year ahead when, yes, we would be Seniors.

At last our "Senior year" arrived. We had finally reached the pinnacle of our educational process and with it came a second stripe. After September vacations, we settled down to Senior class block, learning the basic essentials of Ward Management, Disaster Nursing, Chest Surgery, and many others.

We found ourselves in the midst of planning our yearbook, with deadlines to meet, pictures to be taken, and advertisements to be obtained.

Class meetings were held monthly, and consisted of planning money-making schemes such as bake sales, raffles, and a spaghetti dinner.

On June 8th, our class was honored by the Alumnae Association at a homecoming affair held at the Sheraton Hotel. This was followed, two days later, by a delicious dinner at Shoyer's Restaurant, compliments of the Junior class.

Finally the big night of September 5th arrived and as we received our long-awaited diploma and pin, we looked back on our three years as a student knowing that we "made it" and would now be facing the world, not as a student, but as a graduate nurse.

Our glorious student council.

Baby Picture Contest

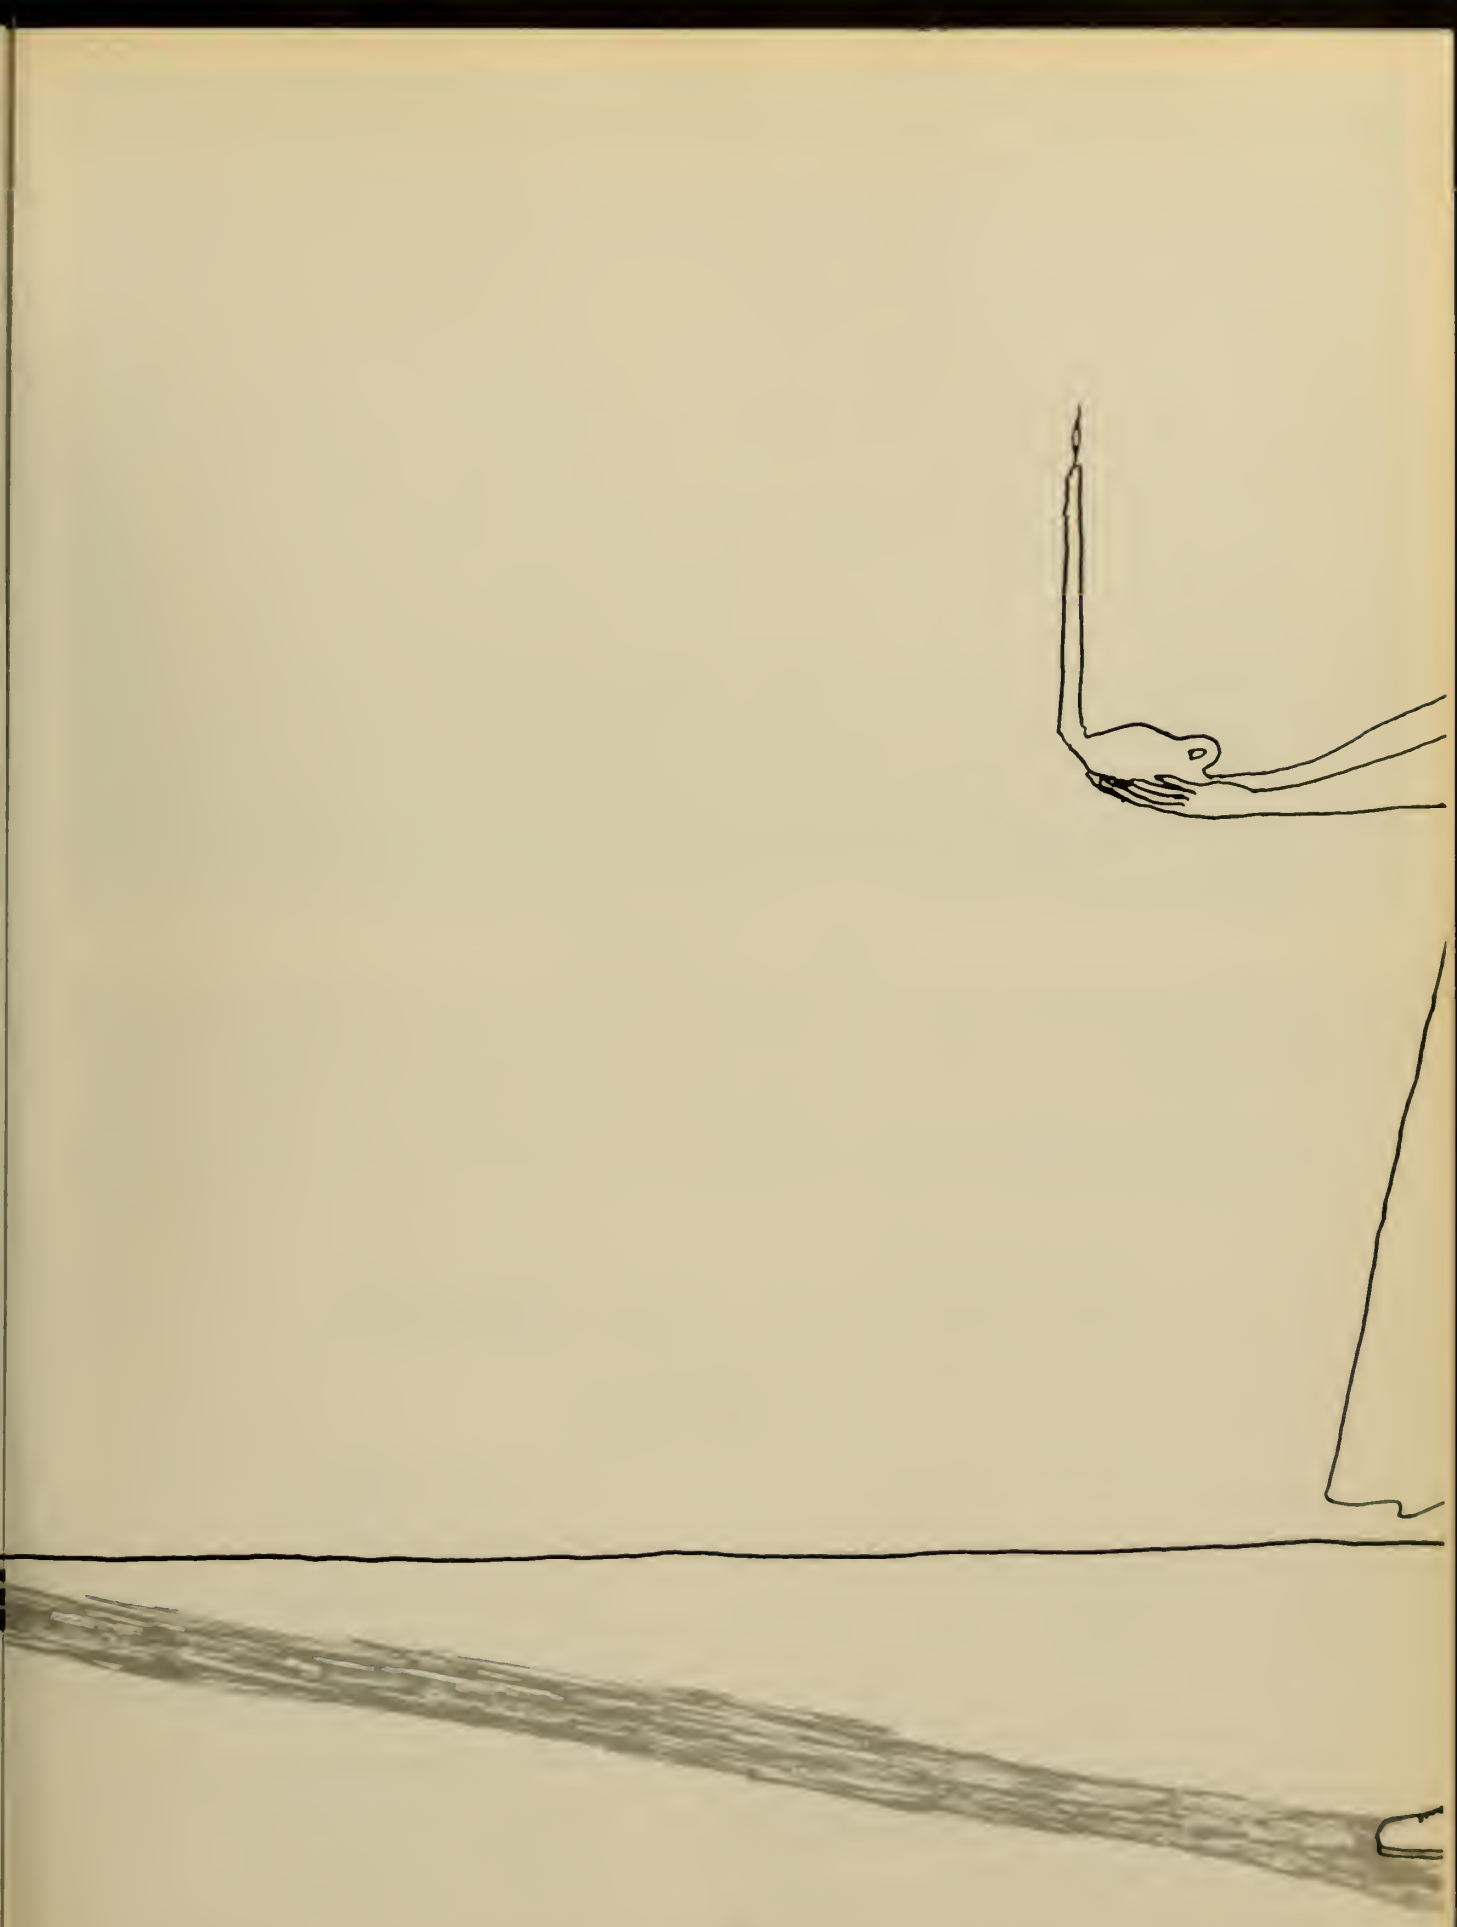

Among our star-studded memories of school days at Hahnemann glows the bright and shining star of our many money-raising campaigns. Among them we can list our Baby Picture Contest. Believing that a picture is worth a thousand words, each member of our class brought in one of her baby pictures: and everyone voted as to whom was the cutest and most charming. It wasn't easy to recognize the contestants since a lapse of 18 or 19 years often makes a vast difference. At five cents a vote, Misses Dolores Dubeck and Ellen Thompson were chosen as the cutest babies of 1942 here at Hahnemann.

Dear Seniors:

When you entered through these doors.
The dye was cast for the Keys
Which would turn the tumblers
In the locks of your abilities.

Humility awoke in you—asserted its balancing power;
Faith in God polished the Key until it gleamed and towered;
Intelligence placed it in the lock;
Confidence turned it far;
And the door to maturity now stands ajar.

Following close behind
Seeking the very same door,
We can say how proud we are
That you who have come before
Have eased our burdens and helped us much.

And saying thus, we give you now
The clasp of our hand, a simple touch
As out of our school you bow.
Good luck and God bless you.

FAREWELL TO SENIORS

The road has been long, and the
hills have been high;
The valleys were low, and the ruts have been deep; but
Three years on this journey have brought you to think,
That all's not in vain and
the end will bring gain.

Some times have been happy, while others were sad,
Sometimes it seems worthless—this
whole plan for life;
But let you not dwell on these
hittering thoughts,
For the reward of all this is immeasurable—all fulfilling.

Yes, now it has ended, the teaching
and training,
You must leave these beside you
and travel alone.
A few steps ahead lies a new
gate to be opened;
There's a new road to travel and
you are prepared.

Dear Mom and Dad,

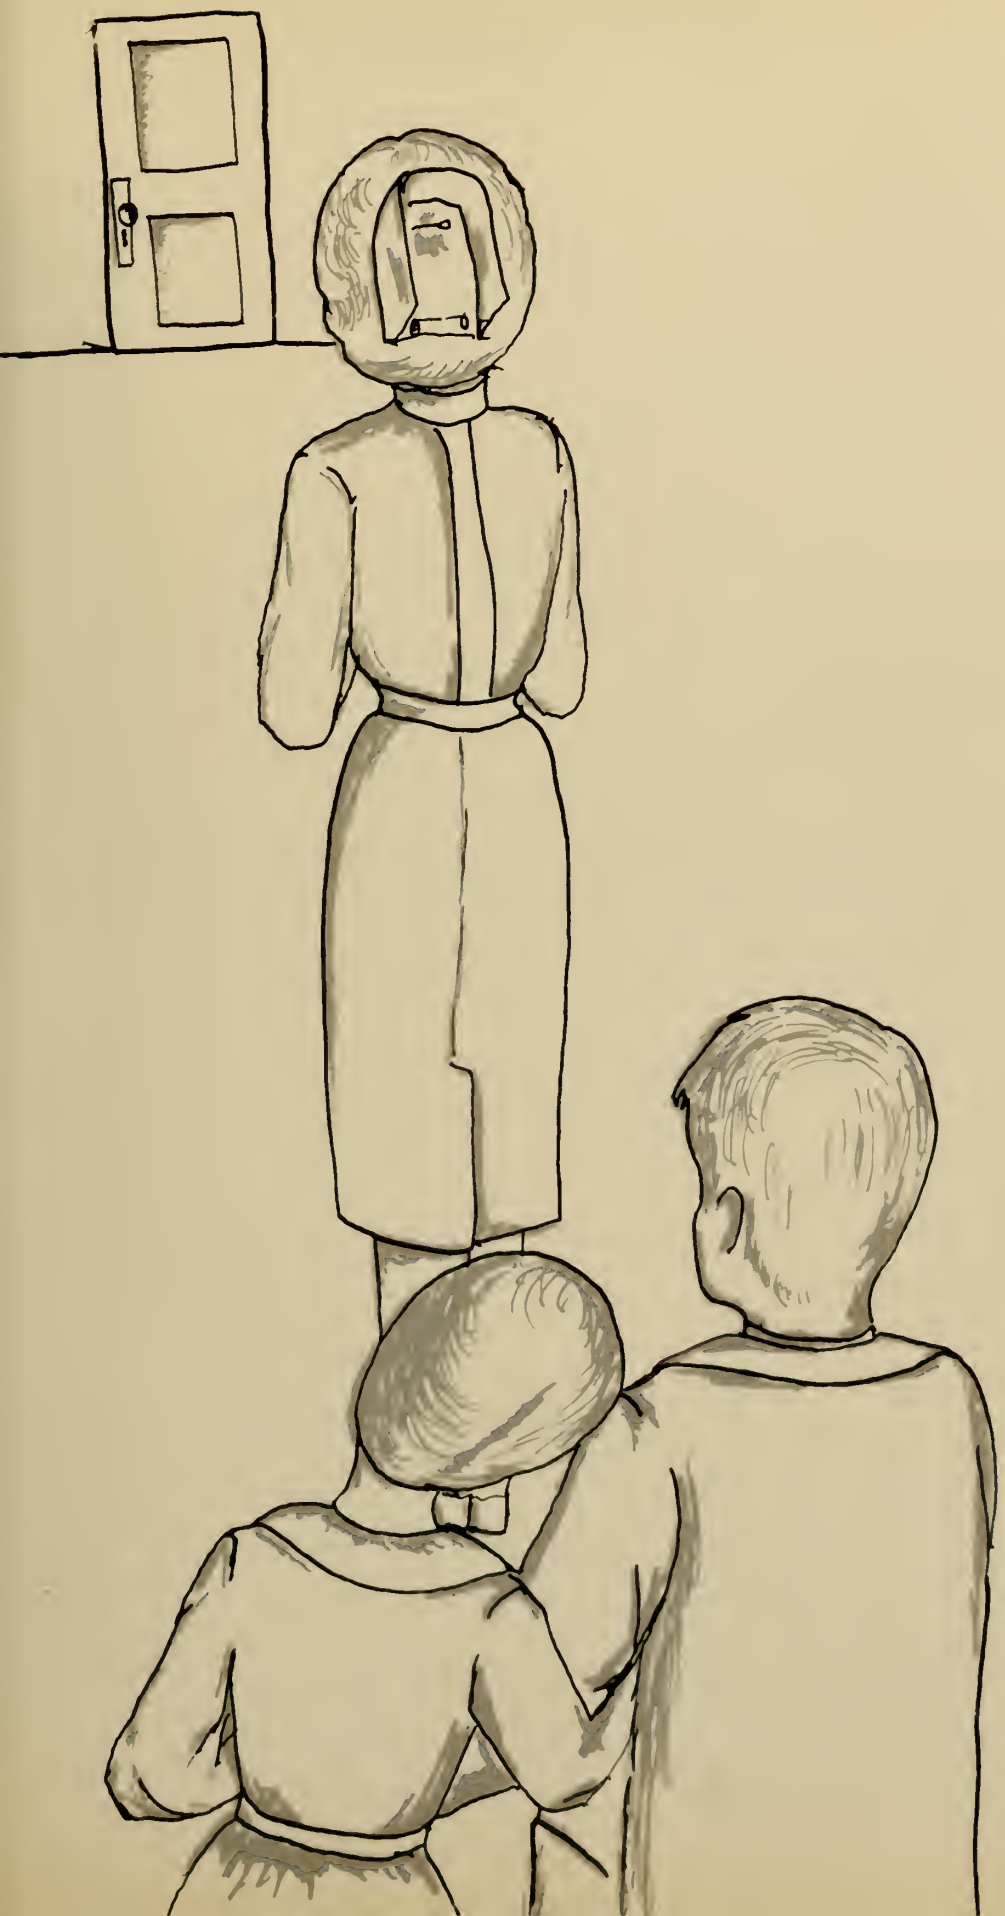

In the past few months I have had the opportunity to do a great deal of thinking, as I look forward to life after graduation. I am now aware of the important role you both have played in making this possible. Without your constant guidance, inspiration, and fine example, this dream would not be a reality.

I would like to say thanks for all the gifts, both large and small, which you have contributed to make my nursing education full, happy, and successful. For all the "little" things far too numerous to mention, but none the less important, I am deeply indebted to you. The kind word of encouragement and "pat on the back" when it was truly needed mean more to me than words can express.

I also want to say that your unselfish work and your interest in my scholastic and social activities have not gone unnoticed. As I go out into the world, I hope to show my appreciation to you by living up to the high standards and fine example you have set.

You have guided me along the way as I walked the road of life on unsure feet; now, as I strike off on my own, my feet have wings of thanks.

Your loving daughter
